

Ragtime Nightingale

Joseph F. Lamb (1915)

Arr: Lasse Johansson (1975-1998)
Incidental arr: Tom Thomason (1998)
TablEdited by Johansson/Thomason (1998)

The musical score is presented in a standard format with two systems. Each system includes a vocal line (treble clef), a guitar line (treble clef), and a bass line (bass clef). The guitar line features chord diagrams and tablature, while the bass line features tablature. The score is divided into an 'Intro' and a 'First section'.

Intro: The guitar part starts with an E major chord (E maj) and an E sus 4/5+ chord. The bass part starts with a C chord and a 0-2-2-0-1-0-5-8 pattern.

First section: The guitar part continues with E maj, E sus 4/5+, and D min 7 chords. The bass part continues with the 0-2-2-0-1-0-5-8 pattern and a 4-4-4-3-3-2 pattern.

Second system: The guitar part continues with E sus 4/5+, A 7, F# min 7/5+, G 7, and C maj chords. The bass part continues with the 0-2-2-0-1-0-5-8 pattern and a 4-4-3-3-2-0 pattern.

The image displays a musical score for the piece "Ragtime Nightingale" by Joseph F. Lamb. It is arranged for guitar and piano. The score is divided into two main sections for guitar, labeled 'T' (Tenor) and 'B' (Bass). The piano parts are labeled 'A' and 'B'. The guitar parts include standard musical notation with treble clefs and a key signature of one sharp (F#). The tablature for the guitar parts shows fingerings for each note, with some notes marked with 'x' for natural harmonics. A guitar chord diagram is provided for a specific measure. The score concludes with a double bar line.

NOTE: As you can see, this tablature has been created in three modules. This has been done so that each guitar part can be printed out separately as well as to provide space for chord notations for both parts. Although the duet version is opened by default, the sound is being produced by the solo modules. These also contain all the chord and fingering information.

Written by Joe Lamb in 1915, "Ragtime Nightingale" is, in my humble opinion, one of the most beautiful rags ever written. Inspired, in part, by a classical piece entitled "Nightingale Song" by Ethelbert Nevin (quotes from which are to be found in the first section as well as the trio), it's balance of melody between the right and left hands make it perfect for a duet arrangement.

Lasse Johansson recorded it with Claes Palmkvist on their debut album "March & Two-Step in 1974. The arrangement presented here differs slightly from the one I was given by Lasse in 1975, Lasse having updated it as late as this year (1998), I have, in addition, taken the liberty of restoring the playing sequence of Lamb's original piano score. This makes the playing order AABBACCinterludeB. Lasse and Claes played it AABBCinterludeB. This involved the addition of an additional ending (measure 70) which doesn't exist in the original recording.

Although originally written in 2/4 time, the transcription has been put into 4/4 to accommodate the quintuplet in measure 46.

Most of the arrangement is surprisingly easy to play. The only real trouble lies in the third section where the first guitar plays a series of chord positions which may present difficulties for some. I've detailed the fingerings as closely as possible and, with a bit of practice, they're not impossible to play.
